Reminder from our school Handbook

Another sick day? How to tell if your son or daughter is well enough to go back to school? Determining if your child is well enough to return to school can be difficult. If you send them back too early, you'll risk not only their health, but also that of their classmates.

Fever A child should stay home with a 100 degree fever or higher. Child may return to school when they are fever free for 24 hours.
